

FACULTY POSITION IN BIBLICAL STUDIES

Belhaven University, a Christian liberal arts institution committed to the ministry of integrating faith and learning in every area of life, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Biblical Studies to begin July, 2012.

Responsibilities

Responsibilities include teaching survey and upper-level courses in biblical studies and interpretation, advising majors, and participation in various student ministry efforts. The candidate needs to show past success in academic writing and publications. The applicant must also be a proponent of contemporary missions and ministry methods as well as all approaches to worship which do not contradict Scripture. The successful applicant should bring enthusiasm for and commitment to involvement in the lives of students both inside and outside the classroom.

Qualifications

Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in an area of biblical studies, articulate a Christian worldview in teaching as well as subject matter, desire to prepare students to serve Christ in their occupations, relationships and the world of ideas and subscribe to the system of doctrine in the Westminster Standards. Research emphasis in either Old or New Testament is acceptable, but teaching in both testaments is required. ABD applicants cannot be considered. Applicants must also fully support the University Vision, Mission and Statement of Faith (<http://www.belhaven.edu/Belhaven/mission.htm>).

Send:

- Letter of intent, including explanation of your interest in Christian higher education, and how your background and experience fulfills above responsibilities and qualifications
- Vita
- Statement of how you would contribute to a campus understanding of the Lordship of Christ
- Describe your personal faith
- Names of four references (including your local pastor) – please provide phone numbers, addresses, and nature of relationship
- Transcripts (both undergraduate and graduate)
