Getting Started

The Belhaven University Dance Department faculty is delighted that you have chosen to continue your pursuit of excellence in the art of dance in a higher education setting. Our dance program offers an exciting opportunity to enhance your training, expand your knowledge, and prepare you for a future in the world of dance and affiliated careers. Although the transition from a private dance school to a liberal arts college is adventurous and exciting, you may find many differences and challenges. Our faculty, as well as this document, will help you make this transition.

Belhaven University’s Dance Program offers a diverse curriculum. During your academic experience, the following goals will be emphasized.

1. To develop and integrate a Christian worldview into your dance studies.
2. To develop skills in technique and performance artistry.
3. To gain an understanding of dance through history and theory.
4. To develop your artistic voice and ability to craft dance through composition and choreography.

These goals aim to expose you to a wide breadth of courses that are designed to give you a broader and deeper perspective and skill-set.

Upon entering our dance program, your prior training may have been focused primarily on developing technical skills and improving performance execution. Therefore, we hope that you keep an open mind to new dance opportunities and cultivate a healthy curiosity about all aspects of the art form. The following suggestions are to better prepare you for your collegiate career with a background of knowledge, making your first experiences with our dance department positive:

- Attend as many dance performances as you can
- View television documentaries and films on dance
- Read about dance in newspapers, magazines, books, on the web—visit your local library
- Familiarize yourself with key choreographers of the 20th century—George Balanchine, Martha Graham, José Limón, and William Forsythe, to name a few.
- Research contemporary dance artists and current dance trends
- Visit websites (YouTube and dancemedia.com) featuring different dance genres
- Broaden your skill base—discover new ideas and approaches by taking dance classes from different teachers
- Explore other dance forms—try something different!

As you expand your perspectives by discovering the vast array of opportunities that you may not have thought about pursuing, it is important to remain creative and flexible in your thinking; while looking into the only true mirror that will tell you who you are, what you have, and where you are as a child of God - His Word.
Belhaven University prepares students academically and spiritually to serve Christ Jesus in their careers, in human relationships, and in the world of ideas.

Belhaven University affirms the Lordship of Christ over all aspects of life, acknowledges the Bible as the foundational authority for the development of a personal worldview, and recognizes each individual’s career as a calling from God. Each academic department is committed to high academic goals for its students and clarifies the implications of biblical truth for its discipline. Belhaven upholds these commitments in offering undergraduate or graduate programs, by conventional or technological delivery modes, and in local, national, and international venues. The University requires a liberal arts foundation in each undergraduate degree program in order to best prepare students to contribute to a diverse, complex and fast-changing world.

By developing servant leaders who value integrity, compassion, and justice in all aspects of their lives, the University prepares people to serve, not to be served.

Revised 2010
MISSION STATEMENT & GOALS

Mission Statement of the Dance Department
The mission of the dance department is to prepare students spiritually, technically, academically, and artistically to move into the world of dance and affiliated careers in adherence with the mission of the university.

Goals of the Dance Department
The goals of the dance department are clearly derived from our mission statement and thus categorized. Although they are articulated separately, these goals are interdependent. Our objectives explain what steps are taken to apply these goals, which collectively educate the whole student in measurable terms.

Goal 1: Criticism, Evaluation, and Spiritual Integration
Students will develop and integrate a Christian worldview into their dance studies, and be able to critically assess their environment from such a perspective.

Objective 1: Students will participate in peer feedback, written and oral criticism of dance performances, and personal evaluation of artistic endeavors as portions of selected dance courses like improvisation, composition, performance techniques, and variations.

Objective 2: Students will learn to interact with others in the giving and receiving of art criticism, growing to function as a community of informed artists tackling problem solving.

Objective 3: Students will be able to research, create, lead, and manage their senior projects while interacting with faculty mentors. Students will demonstrate and articulate personal growth and development in a culminating subject. These will be presented for assessment.

Objective 4: Students will be trained to understand and compare different worldviews as they learn about dance history and the development of Christian thinking and practice in western cultures and world communities.

Objective 5: Students will consider both the process and the product of dance making and its capacity to communicate various worldviews, including a Christian worldview.

Objective 6: Students will learn to study and analyze historic and contemporary dance forms, examining them from a spiritual viewpoint that builds on the university core curriculum value of integrating faith and learning.

Objective 7: Students will learn to recognize the source of their gifts, so that they will be empowered and motivated to be good stewards of those gifts, in the light of a worldview that is informed by a Christian perspective.

Goal 2: Technique and Performance
Students will develop skills in technique and performance interpretation in ballet, modern, and world dance forms.

Objective 1: Students who are dance majors will take both ballet and modern dance for credit or audit their freshman year in order to gain skill in both classical and contemporary techniques, and to aid the faculty in determining BFA candidates by second year of study. Students will continue to develop technical skill in further coursework in ballet and modern dance dependent on their degree tracking.

Objective 2: Students will be given opportunity to take courses in world dance forms and experience performance and/or workshops in world dance forms.

Objective 3: Students will have opportunity by audition to work with a diverse offering of guest artists, perform in varied venues, and collaborate with outside resources, aiding in the creation of versatile dancers.
Objective 4: Students will receive guidance and critique in their quality of dance performance through performance coursework, final assessments in selected dance courses, and in the presentation of student choreography.

Objective 5: Students will grow in risk-taking, problem solving, application of correction, versatility in movement style, personal artistry over imitation, and individual growth. Students will gain the ability to teach themselves while continuing to learn from others.

Objective 6: Students will receive guidance through peer and teacher feedback, criticism, and final assessment of their work in the areas of technical execution, performance interpretation, and performance level.

Goal 3: Academics and Theory of Dance
Students will gain an understanding of dance and its influence in past and present culture and how to communicate theoretical instruction proficiently.

Objective 1: Students will gain an understanding of the past, present, and potential future influences that inform dance thought and practice, through research, formulation of ideas, and oral and written presentations.

Objective 2: Students will learn about past and present dance works through experiential learning (reconstruction of historical works, watching and learning to analyzing current works). Within this process of learning, students will examine how Christian thinking has influenced dance history and informs current dance practice.

Objective 3: Students will receive instruction in primary and secondary dance pedagogy and teaching methods. This understanding will offer skills in technical methodologies, vocabulary, and articulation of this knowledge.

Objective 4: Students will research the structural and financial environment of a variety of dance communities.

Objective 5: Students will develop and apply skills in lighting design, sound, and video technologies.

Goal 4: Artistry and Craft
Students will develop their artistry, craft, and voice through the exploration of communicating of ideas and the developing of skills in dance composition.

Objective 1: Students will work to express their own individual motivation and ideas, discovering how to express an internal perspective through creative problem solving.

Objective 2: Students will be guided to apply their knowledge from improvisation courses to composition and choreography coursework as a foundation for dance crafting.

Objective 3: Students will develop skills in working with elements of movement (space, shape, time, and energy) along with the collaboration with other disciplines, text, props, weight sharing, among other aspects of dance improvisation and dance crafting.

Objective 4: Students will explore the development of an idea in dance through a range of communication (literal to abstract) and discuss the outcome in terms of its ability to authentically convey a worldview. Within this exploration students will discover the capacity to communicate from a worldview in dance.

Objective 5: Students will learn and practice form and design, dynamics, elements of dance crafting, and the process of creating solo work and group work.

Objective 6: Students will receive guidance through peer and teacher feedback, criticism, and final assessment of their work.
DEPARTMENTAL POLICIES FOR DANCE STUDENTS

Technique classes and rehearsals are the most time-intensive requirements in the dance program. They focus on developing your expressive and physical skills through a strong foundation in ballet and modern dance. Therefore it is imperative that in these studio courses you are ready to work and do so consistently.

❖ ATTIRE:

Proper Attire for Ballet Classes/Performance for Women Includes:

- Black leotard and pink tights. Instructors may communicate individual preferences regarding leotard style in their course syllabi. Tights must be worn under the leotard and over the feet. No rolled up tights are permitted.
- Proper foundations neatly covered by practice clothes
- Please do not wear tights or leotards with holes or runs in them.
- Pink canvas ballet shoes are recommended with elastic appropriately attached. It is suggested to have more than one pair/semester.
- Pointe shoes: Recommended to have 2-3 pairs/semester for class/rehearsals. Ribbons are required for class. Students must always have a 2nd pair of pointe shoes they are working in.
- Skirts may be worn for Pointe class, but only for center work and/or at the discretion of the instructor. The skirt must be black and may not reach longer than mid-thigh.
- Flesh-toned camisole leotard (no shiny straps) is required for performance.
- Cap-sleeved, scoop neck black leotard, black footless tights, and a black georgette wrap skirt will be required for special occasions and for choreography showings/performances.

Proper Attire for Ballet Classes for Men Includes:

- Black tights or black unitard
- A snug white, gray or black tank / T-shirt or leotard
- Dance belt (one black, one nude)
- Waist band or belt to hold up tights
- Black ballet shoes with elastics appropriately attached; Recommended to have at least 2 pairs/semester
- Tights worn inside shoes

Proper Attire for Modern Dance Classes Includes:

- Women: Black footless tights, leggings, or capri-length fitness pants and a solid colored leotard
- Men: Snug black or white T-shirts and tights without feet
- Unitards or biker shorts may be substituted for either
- Dancers should be prepared, in every way to dance barefoot.

*Additional Modern Dance Attire Guidelines:
Due to the varied demands of eclectic approaches to modern dance technique, individual instructors will communicate specific guidelines for attire in modern classes via their course syllabi. Some instructors may prefer leotards and black footless tights, while others may prefer looser-fitting clothing. Students should be prepared with supportive undergarments and modest attire. No bare midriffs or shorts above mid-thigh. Please consult with individual instructors concerning their preferences including bare feet/socks. Additional items, such as knee pads, are strongly recommended.
Furthermore...

- Sweat pants and other bulky garments may be worn in rehearsal only with the permission of the instructor.
- Practice clothes are to be clean and neat (visitors often observe classes), and they should permit the instructor’s clear observation of the line of the body.
- Outside the studio students should ‘cover up,’ even if the weather and/or contemporary fashion allow otherwise.
- All dancers are to neatly and appropriately secure their hair off the face and neck.
- Jewelry, with the exceptions of engagement/wedding bands and post earrings, is prohibited.
- Unless the temperature in the studio is 65° or below, students will be asked to remove all “warm-up” clothing before class begins.
- Please consult your professor’s syllabus concerning individual preferences or guidelines regarding appropriate attire, hair and shoes.
- Please use locker rooms. Do no change clothes in the hallways.

Additional Attire for Belhaven University Dance Ensemble Performances:

Women should have a pair of neat pink canvas ballet slippers and should always have a second pair of pointe shoes available. You are to provide your own tights unless otherwise discussed with the Artistic Director, and you should own a pair of sparkling post earrings and false eye lashes. For special occasions and for choreographic work that is being “workshopped” without formal costuming, women should also have a 3/4 length sleeved, scooped black leotard, black capri-length tights, and a flesh-toned camisole (no shiny straps).

Men, in addition to their usual attire, should own a white and a black short-sleeved crew neck nylon leotard by Capezio. Men should also have two pairs of canvas ballet shoes standing by, one white and one black.

All dancers should have a pair of black jazz pants and a pair of black jazz shoes at their disposal. They are also to supply and apply their own make up. (Please also refer to On Performance Situations on page 41.)
Class Procedures:

- Students are expected to arrange any portable barres that might be necessary for the class before the time the class is scheduled to begin, not as the first combination is beginning. Please be in your place at the barre when it is time to begin. Do not wait for the instructor to ask you to go to the barre.

- Students are expected to be in the preparatory position before the music begins for an exercise. They are also expected to finish each combination in an appropriate manner and in a stationary position.

- Students are expected to fully complete each combination, beginning to end, without stopping. If something does not work, do not attempt to repeat the step midway through, wait until you have finished the combination. Starting and stopping in an exercise/combination are bad habits and potentially dangerous for those around you.

- Women should prepare their toes for pointe work before their classes begin.

- Students will not be allowed to leave the class once it has started, except in cases of a personal injury or with permission from the instructor.

Production Points:

The production point requirement for Performance courses DAN243, DAN343, DAN443, or DAN290 is meant to allow students to gain practical experience by assisting with duties related to the production process of our shows. It also allows Belhaven University Dance Department to produce professional-quality shows. Production points can be awarded for many different responsibilities, some examples of which are noted below.

Mainstage Production (Multi-Week):
- Stage Manager – 10
- Assistant SM – 10
- Board Operators – 8
- Gel Crew, Stage Hands – 5
- Dressers – 8
- House Manager – 10
- Box Office Manager – 8
- Assistant Box Office Manager – 6
- Ushers – 4

Club/Student Productions (1-4 Performances):
- Stage Manager – 10
- Assistant SM – 8
- Board Operators, Gel Crew, Stage Hands – 4
- Dressers – 4
- House Manager – 8
- Box Office Manager – 6
- Assistant Box Office Manager – 4
- Ushers – 2

Other Opportunities:
- Poster Delivery – 1 point per three posters
- Load-in/Load Out Crew – 5 points (based on extent of load-in/out)
- Chair/Riser Crew – 2
- Costume Shop – 1 point per two hours worked

The point values listed above are subject to change at any time and for any reason. Students should check the sign-up sheet on the call board to know exactly how many points they will earn for each responsibility. Ultimately, Mr. Lott and Mrs. Bower have final say over how many points were earned each semester by a student.
If you are unsure of the requirements of a position, feel free to speak to Mr. Lott prior to signing up.

Other points may be awarded based on departmental need at a rate of approximately 1 point per two hours of work. Check the production call board frequently for opportunities.

Students are responsible for keeping their own calendar and being prompt, prepared, and properly dressed at calls. Anyone who is not properly attired will be docked production points and sent home to change. Proper attire includes closed-toe, non-marking shoes for all calls and black clothing for show calls. Students should use their best judgment when selecting clothing for work calls and show calls.

Production points are only to be awarded after students have completed the task or position.

If a student is late for a call, and does not contact Mr. Lott, they will be docked 1 production point per 15 minutes that they are late. For instance, if the student is acting as an usher for 4 points, but doesn’t arrive until 30 minutes after their call, they will only earn 2 points.

If a student does not show up to a call at all, they will not earn any production points, and will be barred from earning production points for the remainder of the semester. This means, if a student misses a call completely, they will fail the production point requirement of their course or courses. It is considered no different than failing to turn in a project, and the policy of the Dance Department is not to accept late or make-up work.

Also,
If a student must have a substitute for one or more nights of a call, it must be approved by Mr. Lott before they sign up, and both members are responsible for attendance. If a substitute misses a call that they are covering, both students will fail the production point requirement.

 Studios and Scheduling:

☆ No food or drinks, except water in capped containers, may be brought into the studios. Smoking is strictly forbidden, as are chewing gum and the use of baby powder and rosin on the marley floors.

☆ Students wishing to schedule a rehearsal in the Studio on a regular basis must submit a completed request for space form to the Dance Office at least one week in advance. Campus security will be certain the studio is unlocked. A personal letter authorizing you to be in the studio after hours can be obtained from the dance office.

☆ Students wishing to use the studios for rehearsal need to sign up at the dance office or with the work study student that oversees scheduling (dance@belhaven.edu) with STUDENT REHEARSALS in the subject line.

☆ Rehearsals may not interfere with previously scheduled events or classes.

☆ When it comes to the use of space, course projects have precedence over non-graded endeavors. Please communicate conflicts with the dance office.

☆ You may not be in the building after hours unless accompanied by another person. The audio/video equipment will not be available for student use. This equipment is to be used under the supervision of faculty.

☆ Following a rehearsal after hours, students must remain in the studio until campus security has locked the space.

☆ Only rehearsals pertaining to the departmental course work and productions may be scheduled in the dance studio unless special permission has been given by the Chair of the Dance Department.
Dressing Rooms:
☆ Students are expected to enter the studios in their practice clothes. Street clothes and street shoes may be removed in the dressing room and left in a locker. Do not leave any valuables in the dressing rooms, unless locked, or in the hallway.
☆ At the end of a class, please change shoes and attire outside the studio, so that the next group of students may promptly enter.

Lockers:
Students may request a combination locker located by the dance studios. Please make your request in the dance office. Note there are other lockers available in the locker rooms, and students must provide their own locks.

Other Policies:

Attendance Policy: Belhaven University believes that learning can be demonstrated through typical assessments such as tests, quizzes, papers, and class participation. However, we also believe that learning occurs beyond engaging in these assessments and that class attendance enhances learning in immeasurable ways. No more than 20 percent of a course’s classes should be missed in any term. For fall and spring semesters, 80 percent is interpreted as follows:
- A maximum of eight absences for a class that meets three times a week;
- A maximum of six absences for a class that meets two times a week;
- A maximum of three absences for a class that meets once a week;
- Three tardies are counted as one absence.

All reasons for absences (for example: illness, representation for University activities, emergencies, and late registration) are included in these standards. The only exception is required department sponsored dance activities, such as DME and chapel performances or dance festivals, which are arranged and approved by the dance faculty. Individual dance commitments, such as outside auditions or Senior Project travel are NOT excused absences. When determining final grades, the faculty should consider whether or not other academic performance factors might counter excessive absences or the student may have earned an F.

Students who are required in a guest artist’s rehearsal from 4-6pm AND 7-9pm have the option to be excused from their technique class of the opposite genre on the day(s) of those rehearsals. Example: A student cast in a modern guest artist’s work would still attend his/her modern technique classes, but may be excused from his/her ballet technique classes. Students must communicate with faculty in-person or via email to receive the excused absence.

Observations: Students are permitted to observe class, however choosing to do so WILL RESULT AN ABSENCE for the day.

Tardiness: If you come to class after the attendance is taken, you will receive a tardy. Three tardies will count as one absence. For safety reasons, as well as discipline, you may not begin class after the first movement exercise and you may not leave early. If you do, it will be considered an absence.

If you have an injury that prevents you from participating in class, you are expected to make an appointment in the dance clinic to work towards rehabilitation. Prolonged illness or injury will be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Injury: A Certified and Licensed Athletic Trainer (ATC/PT) is on staff in the Dance Clinic to serve you when you have healthcare needs. The Dance Department’s Athletic Trainer is able to provide most care on-site, and can refer you to other qualified healthcare providers when necessary. Please also consult the Chair of Dance for prolonged injury.
When you receive an injury it is your responsibility to report it to your professor and to consult the Dance Department’s Athletic Trainer for evaluation and treatment. This will help you best care for the body God has given you. Please see posting of clinic hours on the call board.

After initial evaluation by the Athletic Trainer, if your injury is sufficiently severe you will be given an appropriate care regimen and follow-up instructions. Dancers will be asked to sign a treatment agreement form to ensure that the treatment and rehabilitation instructions provided by the Dance Department’s Athletic Trainer are understood and followed. All clinic appointments are to be kept unless you contact the Athletic Trainer on day in advance to change an appointment. Failure to comply with these policies will affect the student’s participation grades of their main technique course.

As part of your treatment, you may be required to either participate with restrictions or not to participate in class and rehearsals. In any case, you still must be present in your dance classes and rehearsals. If your class activity is limited, the Athletic Trainer will give you either a red slip (no activity) or a yellow slip (restricted activity) to present to your dance professors. In order to return to unlimited activity in your classes, you must obtain a green slip from the Athletic Trainer. Students who are restricted from full activity in a dance class also will be restricted from participation in rehearsals.

At each follow-up clinic visit you will be given further treatment, rehabilitation instructions, and necessary limitations as determined by the Athletic Trainer. If you are under a red or yellow slip, the Athletic Trainer will then determine the time frame in which you will be able to return to activity. If you have missed the allotment of absences in class based on university policy due to an injury/red slip, you will need a medical drop for all necessary courses. If limitations in class through a yellow slip reach a total of four weeks, you will also need to drop those corresponding courses.

This procedure is designed to encourage you to become an active participant in the rehabilitation of your body as you work with healthcare practitioners and professors and to help you learn to be wise in decision making about the well-being of your body when it is injured. The Dance Department’s Athletic Trainer and faculty want to be good stewards of your body, and teach you to be a good steward of it, as well.

☆ Departmental Meetings: Fridays 2:30-3:30. Majors and Minors are required to attend and participate in the weekly department meetings and must make arrangements to do so. Absences will become a topic of immediate discussion with the dance faculty, and may affect your technique final grade. As a dance major or minor you are required to attend all Friday department meetings. You will receive an attendance slip at each meeting for you to sign and turn back in at the end of the meeting.

If you miss two meetings you will receive a notice from the dance office.

Upon missing three meetings you will receive a second notice and your final grade of determined course will automatically be lowered by 1/3 grade.

For each absence over three, your final grade will continue to be lowered by 1/3 grade.

☆ Belhaven Dance Gazette: The Gazette is a weekly news bulletin which is published by the dance department and contains announcements, updates and reminders concerning all dance majors and minors. Everyone enrolled in dance courses should stay abreast of information disseminated through this medium.

☆ Bulletin Boards: All Dance Majors and Minors are required to check the dance bulletin boards (located outside the Dance Studios) daily for announcements, special information, rehearsal schedules, crew assignments, etc. Students wishing to post information on the dance bulletin boards should secure permission from Mrs. Bower or Megan Voos. Student notices are placed on the student board located between Studio 2 and 3.

☆ Dance Office: The Dance Office is located on the second floor of the Bitsy Irby Visual Arts and Dance Building. Besides up-to-the-minute information and forms, you can find some selected resources as well. We keep a current file on conferences, workshops, job vacancies, ministries, request for papers, choreography submissions, and festivals for which we receive printed information regularly. The Dance Office is occasionally used to teach seminars and independent studies, as well as for departmental and officers’ meetings.

☆ Student Contact Information: Every dance major and minor is required to provide the Dance Office with up-to-date contact information. Students are expected to check their University email account daily.
General Health: A well-balanced and healthy diet is essential for every dancer. Dancers should be aware that they make extraordinary demands on their bodies, and should treat them accordingly with sound health and nutrition habits. The faculty are able to recommend counselors and/or physicians for health care upon request.

Annual Student Progress Evaluations: This is an important time in the academic year for individual feedback from the faculty regarding the student’s progress and potential. The objective of the faculty is to aid the student in focusing vision and energy, while clarifying objectives through review, evaluation, advisement and encouragement. It is the faculty’s desire to help in the process that enables the student to attain their highest potential and goals.

See page 18 for requirements.
Change of Status:

Change Dance Minor to Dance Major
The status of Dance Minor does not preclude a student from pursuing a Major in Dance. Students with current Minor status may audition to be considered for the Dance Major. The faculty will evaluate the student’s technical progress, motivation, and the potential for achieving graduation requirements within a reasonable time frame and with good effect.

Change Apprentice to Dance Major/Minor
At the end of an Apprentice’s high school studies, the student will graduate from the Apprentice Program by default. The Apprentice must keep the Chair of Dance apprised of his/her status at all times. To continue studies at Belhaven University, the Apprentice has to submit a final official transcript and notify the Chair of Dance, the Office of Admissions and the Registrar’s Office of this intent.

Change Dance Certificate or Ballet Certificate Studies to Dance Major/Minor
Students who complete 24 hours in the Dance Certificate or Ballet Programs and wish to enter the traditional program should contact both the Chair of the Dance Department and the Office of Admissions regarding this intent. The student must show a potential to succeed in the aspired level. Upon the completion of the admissions procedure as a transfer student, including, possibly, the TOEFL for international students. All Belhaven University Dance credits will automatically be transferred to the new course of study. Also, previously earned university or university credits may now be considered for transfer to Belhaven and count towards the degree. The GPA of all of these hours combined will be the basis for any institutional financial aid for which the student may be eligible.

Promotion in Technical Level
All students will be assigned, by faculty, an appropriate level Ballet and/or Modern Dance Technique. Only students who demonstrate the skill necessary for the next level of work upon completion of a studio technique course will be permitted to enroll at the next level. If not, they will be expected to continue at their level of technique until they are ready to advance. Advancement is determined by the student’s technical proficiency, artistry, effort, work integrity, and his/her annual evaluation. The student must obtain an above average grade in the technical portion of the course in question. Also, the student must show a potential to succeed in the aspired level.

\textbf{PERFORMANCE:}

\textsc{You must take ballet or modern technique three (3) days per week to perform in faculty concerts, sr. projects, and dance ministry ensemble.}

\textbf{REHEARSALS:}

Any student participating in any rehearsal must take a technique class that same day.

IN ORDER TO TAKE THE FOLLOWING COURSES, STUDENTS MUST TAKE BALLET CLASS ON THE SAME DAY:

\begin{itemize}
  \item Pointe, Variations, Pas de Deux, Men’s Technique \end{itemize}

IN ORDER TO TAKE MODERN PARTNERING, STUDENTS MUST TAKE A MODERN OR BALLET CLASS ON THE SAME DAY. Improvisation I and II – No technique class is required to be taken in conjunction with these courses.

\textbf{Placement Class:} Prior to the first day of class each semester, a technical placement class is conducted. All students are required to take this class. Any other student enrolled in dance technique courses may be reevaluated for potential advancement to a higher level. Keep watch for posting of these dates.

\textbf{Auditions:} The Department’s biannual general auditions for admission to the Dance Program are held in the fall and the spring. Students living in the U.S. are strongly encouraged to attend one of the auditions held on the Belhaven campus. Arrangements for video audition are acceptable only when a student is unable to attend one of the two department auditions. Please see details for audition information on the Dance web page at \url{http://www.belhaven.edu/dance/auditions.htm}.

Auditions for performances will be posted on the call board.

Dancers may also audition for Theatre productions that do not conflict with the departmental rehearsal, performance or touring schedules. Dancers should check with their faculty advisor before auditioning for another production and realize that dance activities always have precedence.

For additional important directives, please refer to \textit{Performance Credit} on page 42.

\textbf{Outside Activities:} All dance majors, minors and those in the Belhaven University Dance Ensemble or Dance Ministry Ensemble must secure the permission of the Dance Department before consenting to become involved with any outside dance activity, including Dance Team, which may interfere with their responsibilities as dance majors, minors or as Dance Ensemble or Dance Ministry Ensemble members.

\textbf{Rehearsal Schedules and Casting:} Cast lists are posted as soon as possible following the auditions at the beginning of the semester. The posted rehearsal schedule indicates the time at which the rehearsal will begin. You must sign the cast list to acknowledge your role(s) by the time of the first rehearsal. Weekly rehearsal schedules are not always consistent and are adjusted as the creative process requires. Students involved in departmental rehearsals should always keep the daily 4:00-6:00 p.m. time slot open for that purpose. Understand that the dance rehearsal schedule takes precedence over your employer’s schedule. Dancers should arrive for rehearsal early enough to change, warm-up, and be prepared to begin at the designated time. Students in Composition II and Choreography will cast their peers for projects relating to their course work. Those students being cast must take this commitment seriously and review the rehearsal schedule to uncover any possible conflicts before rehearsals begin. Keep in mind that those being cast will soon be the ones who are casting their own choreographies. For additional important directives, please refer to Earning Performance Credit & Expectations for Involvement in Performance Venues on page 43.

☆ Student Project Rehearsals: Rehearsals for student projects in dance are to be scheduled around the student’s existing course schedule and should not interfere with the classes, crew assignments or rehearsals for departmental productions. Students participating in these rehearsals are expected to approach them seriously and with the same degree of commitment they would approach a departmental production rehearsal. Dancers involved in student projects that are part of DAN 370, DAN 400 and DAN 470 and who are registered under the Dance Performance prefix, will be graded through mutual peer evaluations. Choreography and Senior project take priority. Everyone must submit their request via email, with “STUDENT REHEARSAL” in the subject line, to the work study computer (dance@belhaven.edu) so we have record of the request. Changes during the semester: Students who have scheduled rehearsals outside of course work must give the studio to a course work student if the course work student has new issues with their cast. For additional important directives, please refer to Earning Performance Credit & Expectations for Involvement in Performance Venues on page 43.

GUIDELINES FOR WRITING PAPERS

If you need or want help writing or improving your papers, call the Writing Center or go by to sign up for an appointment. Please note that your professor or instructor may require you to incorporate elements into your writing assignments to their specification. Also, you may be required to submit drafts of your papers or reviews to a mentor in the Writing Center for review before you will be allowed to submit them to your professor. The following guidelines come from Writing About Dance by Wendy R. Oliver (Providence College: Human Kinetics, 2010).

Self-Reflections, Journals, and Creative Process

A self-reflection, journal entry, or creative process essay offers you the opportunity to think about dance in a personal way. Whether you are reflecting on your own dancing, the dancing of classmates, or other kinds of dance experiences, you are contemplating what you see or experience in order to understand it more fully. Many reflective exercises will help you grow as a dancer and as a person.

Dance Critiques

Dance criticism is writing that describes and discusses a dance performance in an illuminating way. Reviews are generally written by professionals with extensive background knowledge. Dance critiques are the thoughtful discussion and analysis of a work written by a student. As you write, you develop your aesthetic taste, or judgment, about what makes a work good. The following are general guidelines to writing a dance critique:

1. Observation and Note Taking: Try to keep your imagination open and avoid analysis at this point. Note taking is strongly encouraged. Keep the program as a reference and guide.
2. Free Writing: Ask yourself ‘what stood out about the performance and why?’ and write your response without concern for errors.
3. Construction: Use your free writing to construction your critique. Develop an introduction (including thesis sentence), body and conclusion. Suggested format follows:
   a. Introduction
      i. General Information about performance (who, what, when, where)
      ii. Interesting assertion (thesis) about performance as a whole or one work in particular
   b. Body
      i. Dance one, thesis sentence (analytical, interpretative, or evaluative)
         1. Performance detail
         2. Performance detail
         3. Performance detail
      ii. Dance two, thesis sentence
         1. Performance detail
         2. Performance detail
         3. Performance detail
      iii. Dance three, thesis sentence
         1. Performance detail
         2. Performance detail
         3. Performance detail
   c. Conclusion
      i. Summary of points
      ii. Response to concert as a whole
      iii. New insight
4. Description, Analysis, Interpretation, and Evaluation
   a. Description is used to give the reader a picture of the performance. Use strong and varied action verbs, colorful adjectives and an active voice.
   b. Analysis requires a familiarity of the style of dance presented. Make comparisons, determine structures, and/or place the performance in broader context.
   c. Interpretation involves forming a plausible hypothesis about the meaning of the dance and then backing it up. Interpretation can include information from the title, program, content (narrative or abstract), cultural context, or personal meaning.
   d. Evaluation builds on description, analysis, and interpretation to make arguments that show the strengths and weaknesses of a piece. Note that “liking” a dance is not the same as deeming it “successful.”
Dance Essays

An essay is a short literary composition on a single subject, usually presenting the personal view of the author. Dance essays are a critical component of developing a personal worldview in the context of dance. Essays can be persuasive (expressing an opinion and trying to convince the reader), philosophical (exploring a complex topic for the purpose of deepening understanding of the topic), or editorial (analyzing a timely issue). The basic structure is as follows:

I. Introduction
   a. Context and topic
   b. Thesis statement

II. Body
   a. Argument 1
      i. Example
      ii. Example
      iii. Example
   b. Argument 2
      i. Example
      ii. Example
      iii. Example
   c. Argument 3
      i. Example
      ii. Example
      iii. Example

III. Conclusion
   a. Summary of arguments
   b. Restatement of opinion in a new way

Dance Research Papers

A research paper requires you to gather information and evidence and synthesize it in a personalized way. Although a research paper is not an opinion paper, it is still guided by your judgment, since you must sort through large amounts of material to determine what is relevant to the points you wish to make. A research paper is not merely a collection of what others have said before on a topic; it is a thoughtful shaping of evidence to support your thesis. Topics range from historical, social, aesthetic, or pedagogical issues. Once you have selected your topic, you must conduct a review of literature.

Review of Literature

A literature review surveys all the sources on a given topic. The purpose of the literature review is to determine what others in the field have written about your topic. You will not include all the sources surveyed in a review of literature in your final paper, however this process helps you to determine which sources will be included and to avoid redundancy with other published materials. Acceptable sources for a literature review are encyclopedias, books, scholarly journals and magazines, newspaper and web articles, unpublished dissertations, etc. While internet sources, such as Wikipedia, can be helpful in the research process, they are NOT acceptable sources for a literature review. Format for a literature review is as follows:

Full Chicago style citation of the source. (This will be helpful for your works cited page later.) One to two sentences summarizes the source. Two to three sentences describing the source’s application to your research paper.

Avoiding Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the theft of written material or ideas. When you use the words of others, those words must be enclosed in quotation marks and cited with an endnote or a footnote. Typically, a quotation of two lines or fewer will remain part of the running text; a longer quotation will be set as a separate, indented block quote. Paraphrased materials, summaries, and ideas (even if the words are totally different from the original source) must also give credit to the person who first expressed the thought with an endnote or footnote. If the idea expressed in your paper is common knowledge, there is no need to cite your source. Commonsense knowledge included major historical facts, standard information in the field, and commonsense observations.
Thesis Development

Your thesis is the main point of your paper and will assert something about the topic, conveying your purpose, your opinion, and your attitude. Usually, some kind of background information and context are necessary before the thesis statement is introduced.

Structure

The structure of a research paper follows the same format as an essay with an introduction, body and conclusion. The length of the body will vary depending on the length of the paper, but no matter its length, each paragraph in the body will make a point related to the thesis.

Citation

The dance department uses The Chicago Manual of Style format for citation. Refer to the Bedford Manual for Chicago Style format for citation guidelines. Always include a works cited page for research papers.

For more details and many more examples, see chapter 15 of The Chicago Manual of Style. For examples of the same citations using the notes and bibliography system, click on the Notes and Bibliography tab above.

Book

One author

(Pollan 2006, 99–100)

Two or more authors

(Ward and Burns 2007, 52)

For four or more authors, list all of the authors in the reference list; in the text, list only the first author, followed by et al. ("and others"):

(Barnes et al. 2010)

Editor, translator, or compiler instead of author

(Lattimore 1951, 91–92)

Editor, translator, or compiler in addition to author

(García Márquez 1988, 242–55)
Chapter or other part of a book

(Kelly 2010, 77)

Chapter of an edited volume originally published elsewhere (as in primary sources)

(Cicero 1986, 35)

Preface, foreword, introduction, or similar part of a book

(Rieger 1982, xx–xxi)

Book published electronically

If a book is available in more than one format, cite the version you consulted. For books consulted online, list a URL; include an access date only if one is required by your publisher or discipline. If no fixed page numbers are available, you can include a section title or a chapter or other number.

(Austen 2007)

Journal article

Article in a print journal

In the text, list the specific page numbers consulted, if any. In the reference list entry, list the page range for the whole article.

(Weinstein 2009, 440)

Article in an online journal

Include a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) if the journal lists one. A DOI is a permanent ID that, when appended to http://dx.doi.org/ in the address bar of an Internet browser, will lead to the source. If no DOI is available, list a URL. Include an access date only if one is required by your publisher or discipline.

(Kossinets and Watts 2009, 411)

Article in a newspaper or popular magazine

Newspaper and magazine articles may be cited in running text (“As Sheryl Stolberg and Robert Pear noted in a New York Times article on February 27, 2010, . . .”), and they are commonly omitted from a reference list. The following examples show the more formal versions of the citations. If you consulted the article online, include a URL; include an access date only if your publisher or discipline requires one. If no author is identified, begin the citation with the article title.

(Book review)

(Adelman 2009)

Website
A citation to website content can often be limited to a mention in the text (“As of July 19, 2008, the McDonald’s Corporation listed on its website . . .”). If a more formal citation is desired, it may be styled as in the examples below. Because such content is subject to change, include an access date or, if available, a date that the site was last modified. In the absence of a date of publication, use the access date or last-modified date as the basis of the citation.

(Adelman 2009)

Blog entry or comment
Blog entries or comments may be cited in running text (“In a comment posted to The Becker-Posner Blog on February 23, 2010, . . .”), and they are commonly omitted from a reference list. If a reference list entry is needed, cite the blog post there but mention comments in the text only. (If an access date is required, add it before the URL; see examples elsewhere in this guide.)

(E-mail or text message)
E-mail and text messages may be cited in running text (“In a text message to the author on March 1, 2010, John Doe revealed . . .’), and they are rarely listed in a reference list. In parenthetical citations, the term personal communication (or pers. comm.) can be used.

(John Doe, e-mail message to author, February 28, 2010) or
(John Doe, pers. comm.)
Item in a commercial database
For items retrieved from a commercial database, add the name of the database and an accession number following the facts of publication. In this example, the dissertation cited above is shown as it would be cited if it were retrieved from ProQuest's database for dissertations and theses.

DAN 400-01/02/03TU1 SENIOR PROJECT SYLLABUS

Statement of Purpose: The purpose of this course is to synthesize creative and scholarly interests into a culminating project which reflects the student's individual area(s) of interest, growth and development, and future career goals.

Course Description: In this course, students will conceptualize, implement, and present an individual project which synthesizes creative and scholarly interests. Students will meet weekly with a small cohort of their peers and a faculty mentor in order to develop ideas, address challenges, and present periodic progress reports which demonstrate the continuing refinement of the project over two semesters of study. The course culminates with a formal, public presentation of creative and scholarly outcomes.

To begin this project, students will select ONE creative component and ONE scholarly component from the following suggested options* (see full descriptions of components in Appendix 1):

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Creative Practice</th>
<th>Scholarly Practice</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Choreography (5-15 min)</td>
<td>Research Paper (20-25 pages)</td>

When selecting creative and scholarly components, students should consider an overall view of their undergraduate career with particular attention to areas of spiritual, physical, emotional, and intellectual growth. Then, consider which creative/scholarly component best suites the proposed topic. Students must also demonstrate sufficient aptitude as well as the necessary curricular experience to undertake proposed projects. Students are responsible for the implementation and completion of all aspects of the Senior Project, including scheduling, casting, production, costuming, load-in and strike, and any other technical aspects needed.

*Students may propose practices other than those listed here. Projects are subject to faculty approval.

Course Objectives:
1. Demonstrate the ability to synthesize creative and scholarly interests in an individual project.
2. Show individual student progress and highlight areas of strength.
3. Design a project which progresses from proposal to process to realization by means of danced and written work.
4. Develop strong interpersonal skills through collaboration with peers and project participants in areas of choreography, teaching, production, and/or promotion.
5. Effectively communicate process and conclusions through embodied and textual representations.
6. Articulate the ways in which a Christian worldview relates to/informs the project.
7. Demonstrate the relevance of the project to student's future endeavors in dance, the Christian community, and the field of dance.

Course Materials: Specific to project

Integration of Christian Worldview
Belhaven University prepares students academically and spiritually to serve Christ Jesus in their careers, in human relationships, and in the world of ideas. In this course, students will be challenged to consider their projects from a Christian worldview context. The following scriptures will be used to guide understanding of course material from a Christian perspective:
2 Timothy 2:15; Ecclesiastes 3:4; Isaiah 3:1-3; Psalm 92:4-5; Psalm 8:3; Psalm 104:30-31; Psalm 139: 23-24; Phil 2:12b-13; 2 Corinthians 5:20-21; Psalm 32:8; Colossians 1:10-12; Psalm 141:5; John 4:23-24; Romans 12:1-2; Ephesians 4:15-16; Isaiah 61; Psalm 30:10-12.

DESCRIPTIONS OF CREATIVE AND SCHOLARLY COMPONENTS FOR SENIOR PROJECT:

CREATIVE PRACTICES

Choreography
A choreography project consists of the invention, development, and presentation of original movement for the concert stage. Students proposing a choreography project should have completed 3 sections of choreographic studies courses and obtain an endorsement from a faculty member. Choreography projects are limited to small-group works (2-6 dancers), up to 8 minutes and large-group works (7 or more), up to 12 minutes. Exceptions to these guidelines are made on a case-by-case basis. Students are responsible for all costs involved in the presentation of choreography, including costume materials and construction, commissioning of music, set design and construction, etc. Choreography projects, including costuming and lighting choices (due at In-Class Presentation #3), are subject to faculty approval.

Pre-reqs: Improvisation I & II, Elements of Composition I & II, Choreography
Recommended: Dance Production II, Partnering Techniques, Variations, Pas de Deux

Performance
A performance project consists of the commissioning and/or collaboration with a professional choreographer in the development and presentation of a solo dance work for the concert stage. Students proposing performance projects should have completed a minimum of 4 sections of performance courses and obtain an endorsement from a faculty member. Performance projects are limited to 3-5 minutes. Students should be able to demonstrate clear connections between their scholarship and the performance of the work. Suggested research foci include: physical/technical improvement, modes of artistic expression, or influences of choreographic subject matter. Students are responsible for all costs involved in the presentation of performance, including travel, choreographers’ fees, costume materials and construction, etc. Performance projects, including costuming and lighting choices, are subject to faculty approval.

Pre-reqs: Dance Technique courses (minimum of 24 credits), Performance (minimum of 4 semesters)
Recommended: Dance Production II, Partnering Techniques; Variation, Pas de Deux

Apprenticeship/Internship
In an apprenticeship/internship project, students gain practical experience and job-related skills (minimum 2 hours per week) in the areas of teaching, choreography, arts administration, business, or research. Students who propose an apprenticeship/internship project should demonstrate the completion of course curriculum related to the professional area and obtain an endorsement from a faculty member. Apprentice/Intern projects should be of a sufficient length to gain breadth and depth in professional experiences. Students should secure final internship location by the final proposal deadline. Students are responsible for all costs involved in apprentice/intern projects, including travel, professional materials, etc. Apprentice/Intern projects are subject to faculty approval. Suggested sites include: USA/IBC, Dance for Parkinson’s, Ballet Magnificat!, etc.

Pre-reqs: Dance Production I; Courses related to area of internship (i.e. Dance Pedagogy, Teaching Methods, Dance Kinesiology, Dance Production II, Performance, Choreography, electives in another department, etc.)
Recommended: Courses specific to area of study

Teaching Workshop
In a teaching workshop project, students design and implement a context or population-specific movement workshop. Students who propose teaching projects should have completed a minimum of 2 sections of teaching-related courses and obtain an endorsement from a faculty member. Students are also expected to adhere to ethical standards for Human Subjects Research (HSR), including the implementation of informed consent and documentation procedures. Teaching workshops should be of a sufficient length (minimum 4 sessions) to afford opportunities to test and refine teaching approaches. Students are responsible for all costs involved in teaching projects, including travel, materials, etc. Teaching projects, including choice of teaching population, are subject to faculty approval.

Pre-reqs: Dance Pedagogy, Teaching Methods (ballet or modern) Recommended: Dance Production I, Dance Kinesiology, Dance History, Public Speaking, etc.
Dance and Technology

In dance and technology projects, students design and implement a creative project which blends physical and virtual movement modalities. Students who propose dance and technology projects should have completed 2 sections of technology-related courses and obtain an endorsement from a faculty member. Dance and technology projects may involve, but are not limited to: screendance, movement instillation, stage choreography with heavy technical components, virtual performance, animation, sound, graphic, or web design, etc. Time limits of material presented are equivalent to requirements for live choreography and performance. Students are responsible for all costs involved in technology projects, including hardware, software, licensing, etc. Technology projects are subject to faculty approval.

Pre-reqs: Dance and Technology, Choreography for Camera
Suggested: Choreography; Courses in film, music technology, graphic design, or related areas

SCHOLARLY PRACTICES

Research Paper

The research paper is an extended essay involving gathering sources, critical analysis and evaluation, organization and composition. A research paper may be argumentative (taking a particular stance on a debatable topic) or analytical (exploration and evaluation of a research question). Students who select the research paper option must clearly demonstrate the ways in which their research informs and influences the development of the creative component of their project. Research papers should be 20-25 pages in length, use Chicago Author-Date citation methods, and include a bibliography of 10-15 sources.

Project Report

A project report is a reflective essay that narrates the creative component of the project from conception to process to realization. Although similar to a research paper in terms of gathering sources, organization, and composition, project reports critically analyze and evaluate the creative component in process and post-production. Project reports should include a review of literature, description of creative process, and description/analysis of final creative outcomes. Project Reports should be 10-15 pages in length, use Chicago Author-Date citation methods, and include a bibliography of 8-10 sources.

Oral Presentation

An oral presentation is the formal public delivery of scholarship related to the creative component. An oral presentation may take the format of a research paper or project report and should include visual aids, such as PowerPoint, images, video, etc. The time requirement for an oral presentation is 15 minutes with 5-10 minutes of Q&A with an audience. Oral presentations should be accompanied by an 8-10 page document for the faculty mentor. Powerpoints and written documents should use Chicago Author-Date citation and include a bibliography of 8-10 sources.

Lecture/Demonstration

A lecture demonstration is similar to an oral presentation in that it involves the formal public delivery of scholarship related to the creative component with the addition of physical demonstration (either by the presenter or others). Lecture/demonstrations are 15 minutes in length with 5-10 minutes of Q&A with an audience. In contrast to an oral presentation (which may use demonstration as a form of visual aid), lecture/demonstrations rely equally on the contributions of verbal and physical delivery to communicate ideas. Lecture/demonstrations should be accompanied by an 8-10 page document in Chicago Author-Date citation and a bibliography of 8-10 sources.

Poster Presentation

A poster presentation is a form often used at academic conferences to present original research. Using a platform such as PowerPoint, presenters format their information (including project title and abstract, purpose, background, description of project and outcomes, visual aids, bibliographic info, etc.) into slides that are printed and displayed on a 36x48” foam board. Presenters should be able to formally summarize their project in 3-5 minutes and field questions from faculty and audiences. Poster presentations should be accompanied by a 8-10 page paper in Chicago Author-Date style and include a bibliography of 8-10 sources for the faculty mentor and a shorter document for audience members.
THINGS EVERY DANCER NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT REHEARSING

☆ Always be prepared for rehearsal. Unless absolutely impossible, you should be early for a rehearsal. This will give you time to warm up your body, prepare your feet and shoes, go over choreography learned previously, etc. It is vital to warm up your body even if you have already had a class earlier. Rehearsals usually come towards the end of the day and you may experience some fatigue. It is at this point that injuries can occur. If you are properly warmed-up, injuries are less likely to happen and in the case where they do occur they are less likely to be serious.

☆ Be on time to the rehearsal (even if others or the person leading the rehearsal is not or will not be.) If you know that you will be late due to another rehearsal or academic class, please let the choreographer or the rehearsal director know ahead of time. Rehearsal time is limited and every minute counts. It is also inconsiderate to those who are on time and ready to work to be kept waiting. Be late and you may find that you have been replaced.

☆ Dress appropriately for rehearsal. In some situations, it is permissible to wear baggy shorts and t-shirts to a rehearsal, however, you may be asked to remove them. If you have any doubts about attire, ask the person running the rehearsal what would be appropriate. Please remember that partnering can become hazardous when clothing is layered. It is also important to note that dance is about the lines we make with our bodies. Baggy clothes can hide these lines. Choose your rehearsal wear carefully.

☆ There are occasions when discussions in a rehearsal are necessary, e.g. between you and the choreographer, between you and your partner, or you and your group. Please make sure that those discussions don’t disturb others or distract in any way from the person conducting the rehearsal. In many instances it is important that you are listening and giving your full attention to whatever directions the choreographer is giving, even if they don’t pertain to you at that moment.

☆ In many situations it is unacceptable to correct the choreographer or Rehearsal Director. If there is a real problem or discrepancy in what you did "yesterday" and what you are being asked to do "today," raise your hand or quietly pull the choreographer aside and politely point out the confusion. It is not acceptable to shout out from across the studio: "Hey, we didn't do it like that last time!"

☆ Unless you have been told to take a break, never sit down in a rehearsal. If you are not being used at that moment, you can stretch standing up. Sitting stiffens the muscles. Stretching on the floor causes a hazard for those whose way you might be in. Also, sitting and stretching often gives the appearance of disinterest or boredom. Standing up and keeping your attention on what is happening around you not only helps keep you energized, but enhances the impression that you really want to be there, even if you would rather be someplace else!

☆ Don’t leave the studio without asking to be excused. If you are excused for a break, don’t wander far. You should never be so far that someone has to go look for you when your break is over. It is your responsibility to keep up with rehearsal progress.

☆ Second cast and understudies: It is an honor to be assigned as second cast or understudy. It is often a testimony to your reliability and faithfulness. There are many stories of dancers chosen as understudies or second cast who went on to be first cast choices because of their faithfulness and good stewardship of rehearsal time. Remember the parable of the talents? Go into each rehearsal as if it were your turn to dance. Know the choreography and spacing. Don’t ever be caught just sitting in the back of the room. Again, this gives the impression of boredom and disinterest. If you want to be given a chance, you need to be out-there doing as much as you can. (Now, while you are out there, make sure that you don’t get in the way of the other cast of dancers who have the "right of way," so to speak.)

☆ Never tell a choreographer what you can and cannot do choreographically, unless the proposed movement will aggravate an injury or will be impeded by it. You should give the movement a wholehearted effort. Most choreographers want you and the choreography to look good, so you can rest assured that if the step really doesn’t work, it will be changed or given to someone who can do it. Dancers who will not even attempt to give the choreographer what he/she is looking for will find themselves asked less frequently to dance. By at least trying the choreography, you might find that you really can do what you didn’t think possible.

☆ If you find yourself injured during a rehearsal period, whether you are first cast, second cast, or understudy, you are still required to be at the rehearsal. Should your injury be serious enough to warrant pulling you out of the part, it is still at the discretion of the choreographer and/or rehearsal director to release you from participation in the rehearsal. Often it is helpful if an injured first cast member can be there at the rehearsal to answer questions from the understudy or second cast. You also want to be in on any changes that may be made, because most of the time you will be put back into a part once you are well. It is important not to schedule physical therapy during rehearsal time unless given permission to do so by the Rehearsal/Director.

☆ Casting: Don’t complain about the part you are cast in. There may be very good reasons why you received the part you did. Some of those reasons may be availability for rehearsals, technical ability, size, reliability, or attitude. You should feel free to ask the choreographer why you were cast a certain way, but be prepared to accept the answer in a mature manner.

☆ It is not uncommon for a dancer to ask for a specific part in a choreographic work. Often this can lead to being made an understudy or second cast if the ballet has already been cast. Often this can lead to being in the first cast if those decisions haven’t been made yet. Whatever the answer is, it is imperative that you respond with a good attitude. How you react to a negative response leaves an impression, good or bad, on the Choreographer or the Rehearsal Director.

ON PERFORMANCE SITUATIONS

☆ Pointe Shoes should be pancaked with Calamine lotion (pancaking pointe shoes is up to the choreographer’s discretion). Pointe shoe ribbons should be tacked under so that the ends do not pop out. Please "knock-out" as much noise as possible from your pointe shoes. Have an extra pair of pointe shoes that you are breaking in "standing by."

☆ No jewelry should be worn on stage except that which is required as costuming.

☆ Do not wear fingernail polish on fingers or toes - not even clear polish.

☆ Make up: Men and women should wear foundation that matches their skin tone. Use browns and tans for eye shadows, warm reds for cheeks and lips. Do not wear lip-gloss. Women will need 1 pair of false eyelashes coated with black or dark brown mascara. If the lashes are new, don’t forget to trim them on either end. Use black eyeliner to line both upper and lower lid; no "fish tails," "button holes," or Cleopatra impressions please. Men should use mascara to augment their own lashes.

☆ Do not lend or borrow make-up to or from others.

☆ Please do not leave the theatre with your stage makeup still on. It is unprofessional to attend post-performance receptions and functions with your makeup still on.

☆ Hair: Please make sure that all hair wisps are slicked down and will stay down. Make sure that your hair is securely fastened and that you use hairpins and clips that reflect as little light as possible.

☆ Backstage Procedures: Please get ready as quickly as possible. If you are not ready when places are called or when the next transition is to take place, please let someone in the stage crew know so that the stage manager can be made aware of it. Don’t talk while standing in the wings. Our audience is too close. Make sure that when standing in the wings, you are not seen. (If you can see the audience they can see you.) Remember that exiting traffic has the right-of-way, and keep the wings clear of clutter and limbs.

☆ When the stage manager calls times to curtain, such as "Ten Minutes!" please respond by saying "Thank You," acknowledging that you heard him/her and that you are aware of where we are in the program.
COSTUME POLICY

The Dance Department’s costume collection is cost-intensive and consists mainly of original pieces, created for specific characters and/or works still in the repertoire or waiting to be revived. Therefore, it is imperative that students take good care of them, not only when in rehearsal or performance settings, but in transport and storage as well.

When wearing any costume or costume part:

DO NOT eat or drink (water is allowed). Leave no beverages, foods, or things with food-stuff on them in the vicinity of the costume(s).

DO NOT spray on cologne or strong perfume.

DO NOT go to the restroom. Take off the costume in the dressing room first, go to the restroom, then put the costume back on in the dressing room.

DO NOT apply make-up. Keep make-up away from where costumes are stored or where others wearing costumes have to pass closely by you.

DO NOT allow the costume to sit on the floor, or to be thrown on the ground.

DO NOT take the costume with you or launder it unless otherwise instructed by the costumer.

COSTUME RENTAL GUIDELINES:

Classes: (costumes being used in class throughout the semester - i.e. tutus for Variations, etc.)
- Requests must come from the instructor. (Please make requests in writing as early as possible with a roster of students in the class.)
- Student(s) must schedule a time with the costumer to come to the costume shop to sign a costume agreement form and be assigned a costume for the course.
- Students are responsible for their assigned costume. Their costume must be stored properly in the costume shop when not in use.
- Damages or improper care of a student’s costume may affect their grade or result in fees.
BUDE / DME Rehearsals:
- Requests must come from a choreographer / rehearsal director. Please make requests as early as possible to accommodate the tight production schedule.
- Performer(s) must then schedule a time to come to the costume shop to sign a costume agreement form and be assigned a costume for rehearsal.
- Performers are responsible for their assigned costume. Their costume must be stored properly in the costume shop when not in use.
- Damages or improper care of a student’s costume may affect their grade or result in fees.

MFA, BFA, DOXA:
- Requests for costumes must be made by the choreographer (or MFA/BFA candidate).
- Appointment to pull costumes should be made with the costumer by the given deadline. (Generally at least a week before 1st dress rehearsal.)
- A costume rental agreement must be filled out with the costumer for all pieces being used. Any additions after the initial rental agreement is signed must be approved by the costumer before they can be used.
- Costumes worn in performances must be given approval by faculty advisors and the costumer before dress rehearsals begin.
- The choreographer (or MFA/BFA candidate) who signed the rental agreement is responsible for all costumes. The costume(s) must be stored properly in the costume shop when not in use, or as agreed with the costumer.
- Damages or improper care of a student’s costume may affect their grade or result in fees.

AVAILABLE PERFORMANCE
VENUES, ENSEMBLES, AND CONCERTS

Following is a sampling of the annual performance opportunities available through the Belhaven University Dance Department.

☆ DOXA Emerging Choreographer Concert
This annual concert provides the opportunity for students to present choreography to the public. The officers of Doxa audition and approve all pieces submitted to the concert to assure that they are in agreement with the Belhaven University mission statement, and to ensure the quality and excellence of the choreography presented. The concert is not related to any course at Belhaven University, but students may use material from their courses. The concert may be used to raise funds for the club's purposes. Anyone interested in this event should contact the DOXA officers.

☆ Choreography/Dance Student Showcase
This performance venue offers an informal atmosphere to share class repertoire, choreographic studies, works-in-progress, etc. It gives choreography students the opportunity to show work in front of an audience, provides a forum for students to receive valuable feedback from faculty and peers, and gives faculty a consolidated viewing time to view student work. The content of this venue can take an infinite number of shapes, including showings for the Performance Techniques course, worship, improvisation, and/or other projects in their various stages of completion. The showcase provides a chance for additional ensemble credit for those students who need it. Performances may take place in a studio setting or another space.

☆ Belhaven University Dance Ensemble (BUDE)
BUDE is a company consisting of students and apprentices enrolled in dance technique and performance courses at Belhaven University. The repertoire ranges from the Classics to Post-Modern Dance. Casting auditions are held at the beginning of each semester. Casting will be posted on the production boards across from the dressing rooms. Rehearsals are scheduled Monday through Friday afternoons from 4-6pm. Evening rehearsals will occur occasionally if a guest choreographer can be in residence for a short time only. The Ensemble performs occasionally off campus. Its main venues are the Spring and Fall Dance Concerts as well as a possible tour/outreach at the conclusion of the academic year.

☆ Fall Dance Concert and Spring Dance Concert
A showcase of choreography by dance faculty and guest artists, presented by the Belhaven University Dance Ensemble and members of DOXA. Styles include classical and contemporary ballet and modern dance.

☆ Belhaven University Dance Ministry Ensemble (DME)
The mission of the DME is to use dance as a tool to serve the community and share the gospel of Jesus Christ. The DME consists of students and apprentices enrolled in dance technique and performance courses at Belhaven University. The repertoire ranges from Contemporary Ballet to Modern Dance. Casting auditions are held during the mandatory performance audition at the beginning of the Fall semester, and selected students must make a one-year commitment to the DME. Casting will be posted on the production boards across from the dressing rooms. Rehearsals are scheduled Monday through Friday and Saturdays as needed. Evening rehearsals will occur occasionally. Dancers in the Ensemble must be willing and able to commit each Saturday, and occasionally Sundays, to performing and/or workshops. The Dance Ministry Ensemble has a concert on-campus in February but performs primarily off-campus for nursing homes, children's homes and churches in Jackson and beyond.

☆ Community Dance Concert
Members of Belhaven University dance faculty, students, DOXA and alumni join together with other local dance artists to offer an inspiring and lively evening of dance.

☆ MFA Concert
This thesis concert features original choreography by M.F.A. candidates.
☆ Senior Dance Concert
Senior dance majors present an evening of original choreography and performance at the intersection of scholarship and practice.

☆ Touring
Repertoire may be performed locally, nationally or internationally at dance festivals and other performance venues. Students participating in the touring venue are selected by the faculty with ample notification and must make a commitment to the rehearsal and performance schedule. Participation is voluntary, though highly encouraged.
BELHAVEN UNIVERSITY
PERFORMANCE II-IV, All Sections (DAN 243-244, 343-344, 443-444)
SPECIAL TOPICS IN DANCE PERFORMANCE (DAN 290)
SYLLABUS

Fall-Spring 2017-2018
M-F: 4:00-6:00 p.m.
Instructors: Staff
Dance Office: 965-1413 VADC

Course Description:
Through these courses, students are provided with unique opportunity to further explore their choreographic and performing abilities as well as elements of stagecraft. Students will be instructed and encouraged in the use and development of their dance performance skills from a biblical perspective.

Each semester the dance department faculty auditions, casts, and choreographs for special events and concerts. On occasion guest choreographers will also restage or set new choreographic works.

Casting:
Though students enrolled in the Performance/Production courses will be considered first in the casting process, there is no guarantee that they will be cast in a piece. Students not cast will need to withdraw from the course unless the Chair of the dance department has approved alternative arrangements.

Performance/Concerts:
Students cast may receive credit for this course performing faculty works in the Fall or Spring Dance Department Concert, Community Concert, Dance Ministry Ensemble, or other events approved by the Chair.

Rehearsal/Performance Etiquette:
Casting:
- Don’t complain about the part/work you are cast in. There are many factors to consider when a choreographer determines his/her cast. These may include availability for rehearsals, technical ability, reliability, or attitude. Respectful inquires may be made to the choreographer for suggested improvement for future auditioning/casting.
- Rehearsal schedules: Once casts are determined, rehearsal schedules are assigned. All cast members are expected to adhere to the rehearsal schedule, and they are required to make the necessary arrangements to be at each rehearsal for which they are called. Students may be disqualified from performances due to missed rehearsals.

Rehearsal Attire:
- Consult the choreographer/rehearsal director concerning individual preferences or guidelines regarding appropriate attire, hair and shoes.

Responsibilities:
- Be punctual! Students with difficulties in getting to rehearsal on time due to schedule conflicts must let the choreographer/rehearsal director know at the end of the first rehearsal. Students with a conflict, which requires them to leave rehearsal early, should communicate this as well at the first rehearsal. These students will be allowed to leave rehearsal ten (10) minutes early. It is the student’s responsibility to keep track of the time and to exit the studio quietly and respectfully. Students in either of these categories are responsible for all material given in rehearsal during their absence.
- Preparedness and a strong, positive work ethic are expected for successful completion of this course. These expectations are also applicable for stage production and rehearsals.
- Do not sit in rehearsal unless given permission to do so. You need to be actively dancing and participating.
• It is unacceptable to correct the choreographer/rehearsal director. If there are discrepancies or problems, respectfully ask the choreographer/rehearsal director for clarification.
• Never tell the choreographer what you can and cannot do choreographically.
• Second Cast and Understudies: It is an honor to be assigned second cast or understudy. It is often a testimony to your reliability and faithfulness. Go into each rehearsal ready as if it were your turn to dance. It is your responsibility to learn all parts or the part assigned to you including spacing. Be prepared to step into any or assigned part at any time. You must be prepared to go “onstage” if called upon.
• If you are injured, whether first cast, second cast, or understudy, you are required to attend rehearsals. Should your injury be serious to warrant pulling you out of the part, it is at the discretion of the choreographer/rehearsal director to release you from participation in the rehearsal. You may be asked to assist the choreographer/rehearsal director in covering your part with the second cast/understudy. You may not schedule physical therapy during rehearsal time unless given permission by the choreographer/rehearsal director.
• During performance weeks, dancers will be responsible for the same criteria as in studio rehearsals. In addition, performers and running crews are not to leave the theatre until notes and further directions have been given, unless the stage manager/choreographer/rehearsal director has given explicit permission to be excused.
• Call time: Performers/understudies and crew will generally have a 4:30 call time. Be punctual! Stage Manager will take attendance. Once you have arrived you are not allowed to leave the theater.
• Performers are not permitted to enter the front of house in costume or stage makeup before or after the performance.
• Be alert to the monitor for your cues. The stage manager/assistant stage manager are responsible for warnings only before pieces not individual cues.
• Additional procedural requests may be made with due notice by the faculty in the process of preparation for the performance(s).
• Dancers are expected to take good care of costumes assigned to them for the works in which they are cast. This includes coming to all assigned costume fittings, properly hanging costumes before and after each dress rehearsal and performance, and ensuring all pieces of the costume(s) are returned in good condition and in a timely manner. A $25 fine will be assigned for any costume that is lost or damaged due to student negligence.
• Students must complete a self-evaluation worksheet, assessing participation in rehearsals and performance.
• Students registered for DAN 243,244-443,444 and DAN 290 are required to earn 10 production points. These points can be earned via a variety of crew positions, poster distribution, costume assistance and other approved jobs and tasks.

Load-in and Strike:
All dance students enrolled in the Orientation to Dance, Performance Techniques, and Performance, whether for credit or not, are expected to participate in production aspects such as crew work, load-in or strike of departmental dance productions. Sign-up sheets for this purpose will be posted. All dancers performing off campus, on tour are expected to comply with assignments regarding load-in and strike on the road.

 Please note that all students registered for Performance are required to assist with ALL dance department productions during this semester, including the Dance Ministry Ensemble Concert, Senior Concert, Fall and Spring Dance Concert, DOXA Concert and other special presentations. A Production form will be given to you to complete for each event.
Integration of Christian Worldview:
Belhaven University prepares students academically and spiritually to serve Christ Jesus in their careers, in human relationships, and in the world of ideas. In this course, students will be challenged to consider their responsibilities in rehearsals and performances from the context of a Christian worldview. The following scriptures will be used as a guide for understanding course material from a Christian perspective:
2 Timothy 2:15 Ecclesiastes 3:4; Isaiah 3:1-3; Psalm 92:4-5; Psalm 8:3; Psalm 104:30-31; Psalm 139:23-24; Phil 2:12b-13; 2 Corinthians 5:20-21; Psalm 32: 8; Colossians 1:10-12; Psalm 141:5; John 4:23-24; Romans 12:1-2; Ephesians 4:15-16; Isaiah 61; Psalm 30:10-12

Performance and Choreography Records:
Students are encouraged to keep detailed records of their performance experience for their resumes (title, choreographer, date, role, etc.).

Attendance Policy:
Students must attend 80% of the classes.
Students may only miss 20% of the classes
2 class meetings/week: any absence over 6 = Failure or Incomplete

Grading:
Grades will be assessed according to the level of Performance (Special Topics, II, III or IV) in which the student is enrolled and degree of difficulty and precision of technical execution. Grading criteria for performers:

Belhaven University is accredited by:

N.A.S.D. National Association of Schools of Dance

☐ Purpose of NASD

The National Association of Schools of Dance was established in 1981 to develop a closer relationship among schools and programs of dance for the purpose of examining and improving practices and professional standards in dance education and training. A general statement of aims and objectives follows:

- To establish a national forum to stimulate the understanding and acceptance of the educational disciplines inherent in the creative arts in higher education in the United States.

- To establish reasonable standards centered on the knowledge and skills necessary to develop academic and professional competence at various program levels.

- To foster the development of instruction of the highest quality while simultaneously encouraging varied and experimental approaches to the teaching of dance.

- To evaluate, through the processes of voluntary accreditation, schools of dance and programs of dance instruction in terms of their quality and the results they achieve, as judged by experienced examiners.

- To assure students and parents that accredited dance programs provide competent teachers, adequate plant and equipment, and sound curricula, and are capable of attaining their stated objectives.

- To counsel and assist schools in developing their programs and to encourage self-evaluation and continuing studies toward improvement.

- To invite and encourage the cooperation of professional dance groups and individuals of reputation in the field of dance in the formulation of appropriate curricula and standards.

- To establish a national voice to be heard in matters pertaining to dance, particularly as they would affect member institutions and their stated objectives.

☐ NASD fulfills these purposes, aims, and objectives through:

Accreditation: The Association's main role is that of a specialized, professional accrediting agency. Accreditation is the process whereby an association or agency recognizes an institution as having met certain qualifications or standards. In NASD, the process focuses upon two principal concerns: educational quality and institutional probity. The review of educational quality is made according to nationally recognized standards developed by the Association with the full participation of its member institutions and in consultation with various professional groups in the field of dance. The review of probity is made by determining whether the institution is indeed providing the educational services it says it is offering to the public, and whether its own stated operational procedures are being followed.

Consultation: Both associated with and in addition to the accreditation function of the Association, NASD provides counsel and assistance to established and developing institutions and programs.

Institutional Research: Annually, NASD collects, compiles, and publishes statistics associated with the operations of dance schools and departments.

Professional Development: The Association publishes books, reports, holds an annual meeting and other forums, and provides information to leaders of dance programs.

Policy Studies: NASD pursues an analysis and publications program on issues in dance, the arts, educations, accreditation, and cultural development.

Public Information: NASD provides information to the general public about accreditation and its relationship to educational programs in dance. All published documents of the Association are available to the public.
AN ADVISORY FROM N.A.S.D.
PREPARING TO ENTER A SCHOOL, UNIVERSITY, OR UNIVERSITY AS A DANCE MAJOR:

Acceptance to a professional studio school or an undergraduate program in dance is based on many considerations. These vary widely among institutions. For example, some have stringent audition requirements prior to admission while others have open admission policies followed by thorough examinations at some point in the program to determine whether the student may continue. For specific application requisites, contact NASD institutions directly.

The suggestions below indicate how you can best prepare during the high school years, not what you must achieve to apply or be accepted. The advice provided describes two things: first, an ideal set of knowledge, skills and goals for university-level applicants; second, competencies needed by dancers as they practice the various aspects of the profession in university, professional studio schools, and beyond. In brief, you should learn as much as you can as early as you can.

☐ Take responsibility for your own development.

Each dancer brings a unique set of talents, aspirations, and abilities to the dance profession. Although you are in school and probably taking class, it is important to take increasing responsibility for developing your particular abilities toward your specific goals. Begin by obtaining the admission requirements of schools you may wish to attend the earlier, the better. Ultimately, you are responsible for choices about how you use your time to prepare for your future. For most dancers, that future involves dance at the center supported by many other capabilities.

☐ Practice, practice, practice.

Whatever you do or intend to do in dance, try to practice it as much as possible. This applies not only to your technique, but also to other types of work in dance. For example, if you are interested in teaching, you should try to observe and gain teaching experiences under appropriate supervision. If you are interested in dance scholarship or criticism, you should practice writing and speaking on dance topics. If choreography appeals, seek instruction. No level of knowledge or skill that you can attain will be too high.

☐ Perform alone and with others.

Performance ability is essential for all dance professionals. You should be a competent performer in at least one dance area whether or not you intend to have a performance career. Ensemble experiences of all kinds should be sought. Work in large and small ensembles develop different kinds of dance skills. Fine ensemble work comes primarily through practice.

☐ Master the basics.

Be sure that you know the basic terminology, the fundamental gestures, and the major types of dance.

☐ Develop your musical understanding.

Take every opportunity to study in music. Try to acquire the ability to read and follow musical notation and an introductory understanding of the musical works that accompany dance.

☐ Learn to care for yourself.

Your body and mind are your instruments. It is critical to take extremely good care of both. Learn about nutrition and exercise, how to prevent injury, and how to maintain healthy habits that will promote long-term health and fitness. Work closely with your physician, your parents, and your dance teachers.
○ See as much dance as you can.

You need to be familiar with far more dance than that which you perform. Try to see as much dance from as many historical periods and cultural sources as possible. Ask your teachers to recommend a list for you that covers the various repertories. Try to make sure that you have seen major works of all types in the particular area of dance that interests you. Seek more to learn the breadth and depth of the repertory than to enjoy what is already familiar.

○ Learn how dance works.

Take opportunities to learn the basics of choreographic structure, including such areas as form, composition, and improvisation. Like so many other things in dance, this knowledge is developed throughout a lifetime. Those who are able to get started early have an advantage. Work with your dance teachers, take classes at your local university or professional studio school, or otherwise explore opportunities to gain initial acquaintance with this material.

○ Become a fluent, effective English speaker and writer.

As a dancer, you will communicate in movement, but you will also rely heavily on your ability to communicate in words. Everything from rehearsals to teaching, to writing grant proposals, to negotiating, to promoting your professional interests relies on fluent English skills. Focus attention on learning to speak and write effectively.

○ Get a comprehensive high school education.

The dance profession is big, but it is also part of a larger whole. Dance both influences and is influenced by the humanities, mathematics, the sciences, the social sciences, and the other arts-architecture, film, literature, music theatre, and the visual arts. For entrance into university-level study, you are encouraged to gain a basic overview of ancient and modern history, the basic thought processes and procedures of math and science, and familiarity with works in as many of the other arts disciplines as possible. Most professionals who work with dance comprehensively develop a particular sensibility about the connections among dance, history, and the other arts. Understanding the basics of math and the sciences support future work in dance technologies. Social studies are related to understanding the context for various dance endeavors.

○ Think of everything you study as helping you become a better dancer.

As we have already said, the best dance professionals continue to learn throughout their lives. They are always studying and thinking, always connecting what they know about dance with their knowledge of other fields. Since you never know the direction your career will take, it is wise to spend your high school years gaining the basic ability to understand and work in a variety of fields beyond dance. Keep dance at the center of your efforts, but accept and enjoy the challenge of gaining the kind of knowledge and skills in other areas that will support both formal studies at the advanced level and your dance career beyond.
