PROGRAM NOTES

Porgy and Bess, George Gershwin's "folk opera," has been plagued by misconceptions and criticism since its premiere at the Alvin Theater in New York in 1935. The work’s genre pedigree (pandering opera or pretentious musical?), authenticity (the lives of Southern African-Americans portrayed by a white novelist and set to music by a Jewish New Yorker), and musical coherence (plagued by doubt, Gershwin drastically cut the original score prior to the premiere) have all come under attack. Percy Grainger's muscular and virtuosic two-piano arrangement of music from Porgy and Bess bypasses all these concerns to concentrate on one undeniable strength of the show—its tunes. The Fantasy incorporates some of the most memorable songs of the opera including "Summertime," "My Man's Gone Now," "I Got Plenty o' Nuttin'," and "It Ain't Necessarily So," joined together by music from the overture and orchestral interludes.

Dutch composer Louis Andriessen was only 18 and a student at the Royal Conservatory of The Hague when he composed Nuit d'été for Piano Four-Hands. The work, in a simple ternary form, combines French neo-classicism of texture and structure with harmonies inspired by jazz.

During the German occupation of Poland in the Second World War, Witold Lutoslawski made his living playing piano in cafes alone and with his friend, pianist Andrzej Panufnik. Shortly before the ill-fated uprising of August 1944, Lutoslawski fled the city with his family. He was able to save only a few of his scores; among them were the Paganini-Variations for Two Pianos, based on the famous 24th Caprice for violin. The Variations are a scintillating juxtaposition of caprice, dark humor and fatalism. Written in a unique piano style conditioned by Lutoslawski's brilliance as a pianist and his creativity as a composer, they are among the most effective showpieces of the two-piano repertoire.

Debussy's Petite Suite for Piano, Four-Hands is a delightful work probably intended to bolster the struggling composer’s finances by tapping into the publishing market for playable chamber music for home performance. The suite dates from 1888-89, but shows no evidence of the composer’s growing infatuation with Richard Wagner, or Debussy’s increasingly avant-garde musical language. The first movement, “en bateau” or “in a boat,” mimics the gentle rocking of a skiff on the water. “Cortege” depicts a ceremonial procession. “Minuet” is in a consciously archaic style, a fragrant homage to the French harpsichord masters of the 17th century. “Ballet” draws on the dance-hall style of Belle-Epoque Paris to bring the suite to a bravura conclusion.

Sergei Rachmaninoff’s Suite No. 2 for Two Pianos is one of the most demanding pieces in the repertoire. In 1897, the famous composer and conductor Glazunov led the disastrous premiere of Rachmaninoff’s First Symphony. Rachmaninoff’s wife later claimed that Glazunov was drunk at the time. Rachmaninoff’s confidence as a composer was severely shaken by the negative reaction to his first major composition. He composed almost nothing for the next several years, focusing on conducting and studying opera. Written in 1900-1901, the Suite No. 2 is among several masterpieces—the 2nd Piano Concerto and Cello Sonata—through which Rachmaninoff regained confidence in his compositional powers. The four movements show the breadth of Rachmaninoff’s range, from the rhythmically ebullient introduction to the long-breathed melodies of the Romance, the brilliant figurations of the Waltz to the burning passion of the Tarantella.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC MISSION STATEMENT

The Music Department seeks to produce transformational leaders in the musical arts who will have profound influence in homes, churches, private studios, educational institutions, and on the concert stage. While developing the God-bestowed musical talents of music majors, minors, and elective students, we seek to provide an integrative understanding of the musical arts from a Christian world and life view in order to equip students to influence the world of ideas. The music major degree program is designed to prepare students for graduate study while equipping them for vocational roles in performance, church music, and education. The Belhaven University Music Department exists to multiply Christian leaders who demonstrate unquestionable excellence in the musical arts and apply timeless truths in every aspect of their artistic discipline.

The Music Department would like to thank our many community partners for their support of Christian Arts Education at Belhaven University through their advertising in “Arts Ablaze 2011-2012.” It is through these and other wonderful relationships in the greater Jackson community that makes many of our concerts possible at Belhaven. We praise God for our friends and are truly thankful for their generosity. Please mention The Arts at Belhaven University when you visit our community partners.

If you would like to receive email news-concert updates from the Belhaven University Music Department, please add your name and email address to the sign-up sheet on the table in the foyer. It would be our pleasure to keep you informed regarding the recitals/concerts to be presented by the Music Department during the 2011-2012 Academic Year.
Thank you to those working behind the scenes to make today’s program a success: music faculty supervisor, Dr. Stephen Sachs (chair); student workers – house manager, Shannon Gragg; ushers, Tianna Rogers & Justin Nipper; stage manager, Joshua Nichols; stagehands, Jimmy Brown & Brooke Kressin; recording/sound, lighting, Amanda Hester; videographer, Daniel Bravo; page turners, Lydia & Dorothy Claire Glover; reception assistants, Rachel Gari & Grace MacMaster.
