Participate in the Belhaven College Performance of The Choral Music of John Cheetham

JACKSON, Miss. (March 31, 2004) — Imagine four french horns, three trumpets, three trombones, euphonium, tuba, timpani and percussion. That is a huge amount of sound. The music department of Belhaven College is looking for people to help form a formidable choir to match the brass for their two performances of the choral music of John Cheetham April 23 and 25.

The music department welcomes all choral enthusiasts to participate. Performances will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 23 in the Concert Hall at the Belhaven College Center for the Arts, and at 6 p.m. April 25 at Pear Orchard Presbyterian Church in Ridgeland.

The Belhaven choir and guests will perform O The Depth, a sacred work for choir and brass, commissioned by the Belhaven College music department. The concert will conclude with a fabulous setting of the Gloria for large bass ensemble, percussion, large chorus, and soloists.

There will be a limited number of practices that participants must attend to be able to perform.

For more information on participating in this premiere performance, please call Lauren Morris at (601) 974-6494 or e-mail her at lmorris@belhaven.edu.
