Belhaven's Theatre Departments Presents Scapino! and Love's Labour's Lost

Jackson, Miss. (Jan. 31, 2005) – February will be an exciting month for Belhaven's Theatre department. February 7 -19, the department will feature two productions in rolling repertory. Both performances are located in the Center for the Art's Flexible Theatre at 7:30 p.m and admission for both is $10 for adults, $5 for students, children and seniors.

Scapino! A long way off from Moliere! is a hilarious action-packed comedy based on Moliere's French Neoclassical play Scapino! Set in an Italian dockside cafe, Scapino! combines classical humor with modern punch lines. Directed by Belhaven senior theatre major Jonathan Lowery, Scapino! promises to delight the entire family. Scapino! will begin on Monday and will alternate every other day with Love's Labour's Lost.

A delightful rendition of Shakespeare's "forgotten" play, Love's Labour's Lost tells the tale of the king of Navarre and three of his men who swear off female contact to study for three years. Chaos ensues when the Princess of France and her three ladies come to Navarre on a "diplomatic" mission. Directed by senior theatre performance major Rosh Raines and choreographed by senior dance major, Kendra Hanlon.
