PROGRAM

Quando men vo from La Bohème

Quando men vo soletta per la via,
La gente sosta e mira
E la bellezza mia tutta ricerca in me
Da capo a pie
Ed assaporo allor la bramosia sottil,
che da gli occhi traspira
E dai palesi vezzi intender sa
Alle occulte beltà.
Così l’effluvio del desìo
tutta m’aggira, felice mi fa!
E tu che sai, che memori e ti struggi
Da me tanto rifuggi?
So ben:
le angoscie tue non le vuoi dir,
Ma ti senti morir!

When I walk all alone in the street
People stop and stare at me
And look for my whole beauty
From head to feet
And then I taste the slight yearning which transpires from their eyes and which is able to perceive from manifold charms
to most hidden beauties.
So the scent of desire is all around me, it makes me happy!
And you who know, who remember and struggle,
You refuse me?
I know it very well:
you don’t want to show your anguish,
but you feel as if you’re dying!

Le réveil de la mariée from Five Greek Folk Songs

Réveille-toi, réveille-toi, perdrix mignonne, ah!
Ouvre au matin tes ailes.
Trois grains de beauté, mon cœur en est brûlé!
Vois le ruban d’or que je t’apporte,
Pour le nouer autour de tes cheveux.
Si tu veux, ma belle, viens nous marier!
Dans nos deux familles, tous sont alliés!

Wake up, wake up, pretty partridge, ah!
Open to the morning your wings.
Three beauty marks my heart is ablaze from them!
See the ribbon of gold that I bring you,
To use to tie up your hair.
If you wish, my beauty, come let’s marry!
In our two families, all are related by marriage!

Là-bas, ver l’église from Five Greek Folk Song

Là- bas, vers l’église,
Vers l’église Ayio Sidéro,
L’église, ô Vierge sainte,
L’église Ayio Costanndino,
Se sont réunis,
Rassemblés en nombre infini,
Du monde, ô Vierge sainte,
Du monde tous les plus braves!

Down there, by the church,
By the church of Saint Sideros,
The church, oh Virgin saint,
The church of Saint Constantine,
They are gathered,
Brought together in infinite numbers,
Of the world, oh Virgin saint,
The bravest people in the world!

Quel gallant m’est comparable? from Five Greek Folk Songs

Quel gallant m’est comparable,
D’entre ceux qu’on voit passer?
Dis, dame Vassiliki?
Vois, pendus à ma ceinture,
Pistolets et sabre aigu...
Et c’est toi que j’aime!

What gallant can compare with me,
Among those one sees passing by?
Tell me, Lady Vassiliki!
See, hanging on my belt,
Pistols and a curved sword...
And it is you whom I love!

Chanson des cueilleuses de lentisques from Five Greek Folk Songs

O joie de mon âme,

Oh joy of my soul,
Joie de mon cœur,
Trésor qui m’est si cher;
Joy of my heart,
Treasure which to me is so dear;
Joy de l’âme et du cœur,
You whom I love passionately,
Toi que j’aime ardemment,
You are more beautiful than an angel.
Tu es plus beau qu’un ange.
Oh when you appear, angel so sweet,
Devant nos yeux,
Before our eyes,
Comme un bel ange blond,
Like a beautiful blond angel,
Sous le clair soleil,
Beneath the bright sun,
Hélàs! Tous now pauvres cœurs soupirent!
Alas! All outpour hearts sigh!

Tout gai! from Five Greek Folk Songs
All are happy, happy, ah, all are happy!
Belle jambe, tireli, qui danse;
Beautiful legs, trala, which dance,
Belle jambe, la vaisselle danse,
Beautiful legs; the dishes are dancing!
Tra la la la la la…

Il fervido desiderio
When will that day come...
Quando verrà quel dì
when I may see again
che riveder potrò
that which the loving heart so desires?
Quando verrà quel dì
When will that day come
che in sen t’accoglierò,
when I welcome you to my bosom,
bella fiamma d’amor, anima mia?
beautiful flame of love, my own soul?

Vaga Luna, che inargenti
Pretty moon, who silvers
Vaga luna, che inargenti
These brooks and these flowers
Queste rive e questi fiori
And inspires the elements to
Ed inspiri agli elementi
The language of love,
Il linguaggio dell’amor;
You alone are now witness
Testimonio or sei tu sola
To my fervent desire,
Del mio fervid desir,
And to her with whom I am in love
Ed a lei che m’innamora
Recount the heartbeats and the sighs.
Conta I palpiti e I sospir.
Tell her also that distance
Dille pur che lontananza
Cannot assuage my sorrow,
il mio duol non può lenir,
That if I nourish one hope,
Che se nutro una speranza,
It is only, yes, for the future.
Ella è sol, sì, nell’avvenir.
Tell her also that day and night
Dile pur che giorno e sera
I count the hours of sorrow,
Conto l’ore del dolor,
That a promising hope
Che una speme lusinghiera
Comforts me in love.
Mi conforta nell’amor.

Ma rendi pur content
But please do make contented
Ma rendi pur content
My beautiful one’s heart
Della mia belle il core
And I will forgive you, love,
E ti perdoni, amore,
If mine is not happy,
Se lieto il mio non è.
I dread her anxieties
Gli affanni suoi pavento
More than my anxieties,
Più degli affanni miei,
Because I live more though her
Perchè più vivo in lei
Than I live for myself.
Dì quell ch’io vivo in me.
L’abbandono

Solitario zeffiretto,
A che movi tuoi sospiri?
Il sospiro a me sol lice,
Chè, dolente ed infelice,
Chiamo Dafne che non ode L’insoffribil mio martir.

Langue invan la mammolette
E la rosa e il gelsomino;
Lunge son da lui che adoro,
Non conosco alcun ristoro
Se non viene a consolarmi
Con bel guardo cilestrino.

Ape industre, che vagando
Sempre vai di fio in fiore,
Ascolta:
Se lo scorgi ov’ei dimora,
Di’ che rieda a chi l’adora,
Come riedi tu nel seno
Delle rose al primo albor.

INTERMISSION

Nun Wandre, Maria

Nun wandre, Maria, nun wandre nur fort.
Schon krähen die Hähne, und nah ist der Ort.
Nun wandre, Geliebte, du Kleinod mein,
Und balde wir werden in Bethlehem sein.

Dann ruhest du fein und schlummerst dort.
Schon krähen die Hähne und nah ist der Ort.
Wohl seh ich, Herrin, die Kraft dir schwinden;
Kann deine Schmerzen, ach, kaum verwirren.
Getrost! Wohl finden wir Herberg dort.

Schon krähen die Hähne und nah ist der Ort.
Wär erst bestanden dein Stündlein, Marie,
Die gute Botschaft, gut lohnt ich sie.
Das Eselein hie gäb ich drum fort!
Schon krähen die Hähne und nah ist der Ort.

Du Bist die Ruh

Du bist die Ruh, Der Friede mild,
Die Sehnsucht du Und was sie stilt.
Ich weihe dir Voll Lust und Schmerz
Zur Wohnung hier Mein Aug und Herz.

Kehr ein bei mir, Und schliesse du
Still hinter dir Die Pforten zu.
Treib andern Schmerz Aus dieser Brust!
Voll sei dies Herz Von deiner Lust.

Dies Augenzelt Von deinem Glanz
Allein erhellt, O füll es ganz!

Lonely little breeze,
To whom are you directing your sighs?
The sighing is granted to me only
Because, sorrowful and unfortunate,
I call to Dafne, who does not heed
My insufferable pain.
The little violet, and the rose and
The jasmine, languish in vain;
Far away am I from him whom I adore.
I know no comfort
If he does not come to console me
With his beautiful sky blue eyes.
Industrious bee, who is always
Roving from flower to flower,
Listen:
If you should recognize him wherever he is dwelling,
Say that he may return to the one who adores him,
Like you return to the bosom
Of the roses at the break of day.

Hugo Wolf • 1860-1903

Ride onward, sweet Mary, ride onward, keep on,
the roosters are crowing, we’re close to the town.
Ride onward, beloved, where comfort waits;
we’ll soon be arriving at Bethlehem’s gates.
And there you may slumber safe and warm.
The roosters are crowing, we’re nearing the town.
See how you falter, so weak and weary!
Nor can I ease your pain, dearest Mary.
Take heart, for shelter awaits us now.
The cocks are crowing, we’re nearing the town.
Oh! that your time had arrived, little dear:
good news that I’d give anything to hear.
This donkey I’d give if it were done.
The roosters are crowing come, near is the town.

Franz Schubert • 1797-1828

You are peace, the mild peace,
You are longing and what stills it.
I consecrate to you full of pleasure and pain
As a dwelling here my eyes and heart.
Come live with me, and close quietly behind you the gates.
Drive other pain out of this breast!
May my heart be full with your pleasure.
The tabernacle of my eyes by your radiance
Alone is illumined, O fill it completely!
Gretchen am Spinnrade

Meine Ruh' ist hin, Mein Herz ist schwer,
Ich finde sie nimmer Und nimmermehr.
Wo ich ihn nicht hab Ist mir das Grab,
Die ganze Welt Ist mir vergällt.
Mein armer Kopf Ist mir verrückt,
Mein armer Sinn Ist mir zerstückt.
Meine Ruh' ist hin, Mein Herz ist schwer,
Ich finde sie nimmer Und nimmermehr.
Nach ihm nur schau ich Zum Fenster hinaus,
Nach ihm nur geh ich Aus dem Haus.
Sein hoher Gang, Sein' edle Gestalt,
Seine Mundes Lächeln, Seiner Augen Gewalt,
Und seiner Rede Zauberfluß,
Sein Händedruck, Und ach, sein Kuß!
Meine Ruh' ist hin, Mein Herz ist schwer,
Ich finde sie nimmer Und nimmermehr.
Mein Busen drängt sich Nach ihm hin.
Ach dürft ich fassen Und halten ihn,
Und küssen ihn, So wie ich wollt,
An seinen Küssen Vergehen sollt!

Meine Ruh' ist hin, Mein Herz ist schwer,
I will find it never and never more.
Where I do not have him, that is the grave,
The whole world is bitter to me.
My poor head is crazy to me,
My poor mind is torn apart.
My peace is gone, my heart is heavy,
I will find it never and never more.
For him only, I look out the window
Only for him do I go out of the house.
His tall walk, his noble figure,
His mouth's smile, his eyes' power,
And his mouth's magic flow,
His handclasp, and ah! His kiss!
My peace is gone, my heart is heavy,
I will find it never and never more.
My bosom urges itself toward him.
Ah, might I grasp and hold him!
And kiss him, as I would wish,
At his kisses I should die!

Allerseelen

Stell auf den Tisch die duftenden Reseden,
Die letzten roten Astern trag herbei,
Und laß uns wieder von der Liebe reden,
Wie einst im Mai.
Gib mir die Hand, daß ich sie heimlich drücke
Und wenn man's sieht, mir ist es einerlei,
Gib mir nur einen deiner süßen Blicke,
Wie einst im Mai.
Es blüht und duftet heut auf jedem Grabe,
Ein Tag im Jahr ist ja den Toten frei,
Komm an mein Herz, daß ich dich wieder habe,
Wie einst im Mai.

Breit' über mein Haupt

Breit' über mein Haupt dein schwarzes Haar,
Neig' zu mir dein Angesicht,
Da strömt in die Seele so hell und klar
Mir deiner Augen Licht.
Ich will nicht droben der Sonne Pracht,
Noch der Sterne leuchtenden Kranz,
Ich will nur deiner Locken Nacht
Und deiner Blicke Glanz.

Place on the table the fragrant mignonettes,
Bring inside the last red asters,
and let us speak again of love,
as once we did in May.
Give me your hand, so that I can press it secretly;
and if someone sees us, it's all the same to me.
Just give me your sweet gaze,
as once you did in May.
Flowers adorn today each grave, sending off their fragrances;
one day in the year are the dead free.
Come close to my heart, so that I can have you again, as once I did in May.

Spread over my head your black hair,
and incline to me your face,
so that into my soul, so brightly and clearly,
will stream your eye's light.
I do not want the splendor of the sun above,
nor the glittering crown of stars;
I want only the night of your locks
and the radiance of your gaze.

Signore, Ascolta! from Turandot

Signore, ascolta! Ah, signore, ascolta!
Liù non regge più!
Si spezza il cuor! Ahimè, ahimè
Quanto cammino col tuo nome nell’anima
col nome tuo sulle labbra
Ma se il tuo destino doman sarà deciso, noi morrem sulla strada dell’esilio.

My lord, listen! I pray, lord, listen!
Liù can bear no more!
Her heart breaks! Alas, alas
I have walked far with your name in my heart
with your name on my lips
But if your destiny must be decided tomorrow,
we will die on the road to exile,
He will lose his son...
I, the shadow of a smile!
Liù can bear no more!
ah, have pity!

PROGRAM NOTES

Opening and closing the program are two arias from Giacomo Puccini’s La Boheme (Quando men vo) and Turandot (Signore ascolta). Known to many as the face of Opera, Giacomo Puccini (1858-1924) was the consummate Italian verismo composer. Verismo, Italian for truth, presented realism on stage through plotlines dealing with everyday affairs (disease, love, betrayal, murder, death, etc). Puccini’s heroines (Mimi, La Boheme; Liù, Turandot) play out a common theme of whole-hearted devotion to their lovers, which ultimately causes their demise, but provide the audience with the heart-wrenching catharsis of ultimate sacrifice. His opera Il Tabarro so deftly defines the iconic opera compositions of Puccini: “Chi ha vissuto per amore, per amore si morì” (He who has lived for love, has died for love).

French composer Maurice Ravel (1875-1937) composed the 5 Mélodies populaires grecques, with the librettist Michel D. Calvo Coresi, based on traditional Greek songs. This set runs the gamut of emotions, from love and loss, to an upbeat dance number. Le réveil de la mariée (The bride’s awakening) is a groom’s joyful song calling to his bride, while Là-bas, vers l’église (Over there, near the church) uses the melodic legato vocal line to depict sobbing over lost loved ones. The very naked accompaniment of Quel gallant m’est comparable? (What gallant can compare with me?) is in stark contrast to the moving melody and is coupled with the speaker’s evident excess of self-confidence. Chanson des cueilleuses de lentisques (Song of the lentisk gatherers) is a somber song of longing by the peasant girls for the local blonde heartthrob. It is every bit as emotional and descriptive as one would expect the diary of a girl with an infatuation to be. Tout gai! (All merry!) ends the set with a rousing pub dance after a hard day’s work.

Italian Romantic composer Vincenzo Bellini (1801-1835) was a great proponent of the bel canto style. Bel canto, Italian for “beautiful singing”, is the complete control of the voice presented in a highly coordinated and trained fashion. Il fervido desiderio (The fervent desire) exhibits Bellini’s signature poetic expression in the rapid note runs, representing the speaker’s sighs. Vaga luna, che inargenti (Pretty moon who silvers) alludes to the Classical tradition of appeal to the gods to bring back a lost love, the desperation of which is evident in the repeated phrases at the end of every section. By far one of my favorite songs for its luscious texture and vocal line, Ma rendi pur contento (But please do make contented) is a plea to Love for the beloved’s happiness, even if it comes at the expense of the lover. L’abbandono (The abandonment) features a piano introduction of ascending arpeggiation, with a few embellished notes at the top of each run. This playful theme is present throughout the piece, as the speaker describes how her lover has abandoned her.

Austrian Hugo Wolf (1860-1903) was displayed great proficiency in setting music to an emotional text; the interaction between accompanist and singer was viewed as a duet. In Nun wandre, Maria (Now wander on, Mary), the repetitive notes in the vocal line support the image of the weary traveler Joseph encouraging young Mary to hold out for Bethlehem. This song has required the most emotional and physical growth for me to perform, due to the text’s emotional resolve and the vocal line’s placement in the passaggio (the transition to the higher head voice).
Austrian Lieder composer Franz Schubert (1797-1828) is acknowledged as the compositional bridge between the Classical and Romantic eras. Set to the poetry of Rückert, Du bist die Ruh (You are the rest) is at once an unaffected declaration of and request for requited love. Composer Robert Schumann, a great admirer and friend of Schubert, quoted this song in a composition for his own wedding day. Schubert’s setting of Gretchen am Spinnrade (Gretchen at the Spinning Wheel) from Goethe’s drama Faust, has incredible text painting, present not only as the spinning wheel in the accompaniment, but also as the tormented girl’s descent to madness in the repeated refrain “meine ruh ist hin, mein Herz ist schwer, ich finde sie nimmermehr” (my rest is gone, my heart is heavy, I will find it never more).

German Romantic composer Richard Strauss (1864-1949), while well known for his symphonic poems, has a beautiful collection of Lieder. While researching pieces for this recital, I came across two songs that simultaneously have the power of opera and the gentle melodic flow of poetry. Allerseelen (All Souls’ Day), set to Gilm’s poem, is about the day when the memories of those who have passed on are revived. Breit über mein Haupt (Spread out over my head), a scene featuring two lovers, is Strauss’ setting to Schack’s Naturalism-influenced poem.

My initial approach to the Hermit Songs (five of which I am performing), by American Samuel Barber (1910-1981), was one of a trepidation-filled aversion. Yet this collection has proved to be a great stepping-stone in my musicianship, and I count it as the height of my artistic growth thus far. The text for the songs was taken from the margin writings of 8th to 13th c. Irish monks in illuminated manuscripts. The writings vary from reflections on women, religion, and monastic life. At Saint Patrick’s Purgatory (13th c.) is a request to God for protection on a pilgrimage. Promiscuity (9th c.) is a brief but sly commentary on a woman named Edan. The text painting in The Crucifixion (12th c.) is that of Christ’s hands being nailed to the cross; listen for the wail of Mary as the vocal line broadens. Equally fast-paced, but righteous of subject, is The Praises of God (11th c.); listen for the bird call imitations in the accompaniment. Last but not least, The Desire for Hermitage (8th-9th c.) represents the ideal recluse lifestyle of a monk. The last line has been fundamental in my development both as an individual and as a solo performer: “alone I came into the world; alone I shall go from it.”

Though I may walk on and off the stage of life alone, the minutes, hours, days, and years in between entrance and exit are shared with many whom I would like to now thank: to my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ for allowing me to use my gift to glorify Him in this way; to my parents who have always loved and supported me in this and every endeavor despite the impending “starving artist” years to come; to my teachers, from elementary to undergraduate, who have contributed much of themselves to further my education; to my mentor and voice teacher Ms. Anne Gray, whom I am indebted to for helping steward and grow this precious instrument; to Mr. Tim Dail, a truly gifted pianist and brilliant accompanist, who always brings his sense of humor to work; to my best friend, Emily Goff, for her unflagging artistic and emotional support; to Shellie Brown and Jackie Bateman for understanding me when I can only communicate through puns; and finally, to all those in the audience that have come from near and far to hear my music. I leave you with this quote by Elizabeth Barrett Browning, “I thank all who have loved me in their hearts, with thanks and love from mine. Deep thanks to all who paused a little near the prison wall to hear my music in its louder parts...” - Lauren
